

THE WELL-BEING OF A FLOATING POPULATION: A SYMPOSIUM ON MIGRANTS AND HEALTH IN CHINA

Thursday, April 26, 2007

9:00 AM-5:00 PM, Room 203, Henry R. Luce Hall
34 Hillhouse Avenue, New Haven, CT

China's rural-to-urban migrant workers, who float into the cities looking for work, sleep in a train station. Most of the country's 147 million internal migrants go without any form of health insurance and have limited means to access health care.

Photo from Mark Leong's China Obscura

Co-sponsored by the Council on East Asian Studies at Yale University and the Yale-China Association

Jennifer Holdaway

Migration Program, Social Science Research Council

Suyun Hu

*Institution of Population and Development Studies
Shanghai Academy of Social Sciences*

Xiaoliang Li

*Division of Maternal Child Health
School of Public Health, Kunming Medical College*

Zai Liang

Department of Sociology, University at Albany, SUNY

Xiushi Yang

*Departments of Sociology and Criminal Justice
Old Dominion University*

Chi-Man (Winnie) Yip

Department of Population and International Health Harvard School of Public Health

TO REGISTER FOR THIS EVENT, PLEASE CONTACT kari.heward@yale.edu BY 12:00 PM ON FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 2007

*This symposium is made possible by support from the Council on East Asian Studies at Yale University,
United States Department of Education, and Sun Hung Kai Properties - Kwok's Foundation Limited*

For more information, please visit <http://research.yale.edu/eastasianstudies> OR www.yalechina.org