

SYMPOSIUM ON AGING CROSS-CULTURAL PERSPECTIVES ON AGING THROUGH FILM AND STORIES FROM INDIA AND JAPAN

FRIDAY, MAY 4, 2007

8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. - Whitney Humanities Center Auditorium, 53 Wall Street

This one-day symposium offers an opportunity to explore contemporary views on the experience of aging and caring for the aged in two very different Asian societies. Discussions of film and literature are enriched by contributions from ethicists and anthropologists.

AARON GEROW - Film Studies and East Asian Languages and Literatures, Yale University

WILLIAM LAFLEUR - Japanese Studies, University of Pennsylvania

SARAH LAMB - Anthropology, Brandeis University

KAREN NAKAMURA - Anthropology and East Asian Studies, Yale University

IRA RAJA - English, University of Delhi

MICHAEL TEITELBAUM - Demography and Population Studies, The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation

FOR MORE INFORMATION AND RESERVATIONS,
PLEASE CONTACT AUTUMN.RIDENOUR@YALE.EDU BY MAY 1, 2007

Sponsored by Yale University's Interdisciplinary Center for Bioethics of the Institute for Social and Policy Studies and the South Asian Studies Council at the MacMillan Center. Supported by the Council on East Asian Studies at Yale University.