

YALE GLOBAL HEALTH WEEK

Monday, February 4

4:00 pm, Dwight Hall Library

Global Health is Local Health!

Representatives from some of New Haven's dynamic social service groups will come to Yale to discuss how global health includes addressing issues right here in New Haven.

Kelly Edwards

Health coordinator at Integrated Refugee and Immigration Services

Martha Dale

Executive director of Leeway

Dr. Casey Braitsch

Pediatrician at the Yale Primary Care Center which runs a biweekly refugee clinic

Jennifer Staple

Unite for Sight Founder

Tuesday, February 5

4:00 pm, Luce Hall Auditorium

Movie Screening:

The Blood of Yingzhou District

Come see the Oscar-winning documentary, The Blood of Yingzhou District, depicting the effect of AIDS on children in central China. The film screening will be followed by a panel of experts in Chinese public health and HIV/AIDS.

Sponsor: Council on East Asian Studies

Wednesday, February 6

7:00 pm, LC 317

Integrating Prenatal Care with Care for HIV and Syphilis in Latin America and the Caribbean: A Multi-Country Initiative.

Arachu Castro

Assistant Professor of Social Medicine at Harvard Medical School, Project Manager for Mexico and Guatemala at Partners In Health, and Medical Anthropologist in the Division of Social Medicine and Health Inequalities in the Department of Medicine at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

Sponsor: Council on Latin American Studies.

Thursday, February 7

4:00 pm, Silliman Master's House

Master's Tea with Richard Skolnik

Richard Skolnik

Former Director of George Washington's Institute of Global Health, Harvard's PEPFAR Africa Program, author of The Essentials of Global Health, and Yale graduate. Dr. Skolnik will speak on the role of the university in global health education and the "unfinished business" of global health.

6:00 pm, Luce Hall 202

Global Health Diplomacy: How Health Can Heal Our Ailing International Relations

Thomas Novotny

Associate Director for Global Tobacco Research in the Center for Tobacco Control Research and Education, Education Coordinator for UCSF Global Health Sciences, and Director of International Programs in the Office of Medical Education

6:00-8pm, Beinecke Library

Global Health Education Gala Reception

Mingle with some of Yale's top health experts and administrators, learn about the university's role in global health education, learn how fellow students got involved in global health, and get some great food! Faculty, administration, and only the first 75 students to RSVP will get entrance to the event. Required RSVP to tiffany.su@yale.edu.